Meeting Diversity in Ergonomics

In other words, I want to trace how community-based experiences of music and culture and the discourses that surround them encourage people to feel that they are in touch with an essential part of themselves, their emotions and their community Stokes Given that Portuguese is the fourth most spoken language on the planet, the third most spoken language in the western hemisphere and the most spoken of all languages in the southern hemisphere, the interest of studying music in the context of urban festivals exceeds Lisbon and Portugal due to its transnational proportions. The case of study is an interesting example of how a process of social change is in part process of change in discourse and how a change in discourse may, subject to certain conditions, have constructive effects of processes of social change.
